

Atul Srivastava - Progress Reports

This week, we set up our raspberry pi with Ubuntu and set up our pi can to record videos and take pictures. We have more clarity on what we are doing with the project and we know what we want to do going forward. We gathered all of our sensors and know what we want to do with our home security system. We also divided who is working on what part of the project, set up a repository for our code, and have branches for each of our work.
